Rehabilitation Project To Aid Disabled in Area

A new program has been established by the Virginia Lung Association's (VLA) Central Region (formerly the TB Association), and the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation to assist homebound and severely disabled people, whether they are handicapped by lung disease or other conditions.

These people, unable to work at their former jobs, need help to become economically productive, emotionally healthy and socially active. The lung association became interested in beginning the project because emphysema is the third most frequent disability for which benefits are paid by Social Security Administrations nationwide.

At a meeting of the VLA-DVR Joint Rehabilitation Program on August 2, at the Central Region office in Farmville, Miss Anna Dickhoff was named chairman. Appointed to serve on the committee by Miss Dickhoff, president of VLA, Central Region were Mrs. L. E. Andrews, president, Farmville Womans Club, Miss Meade Boswell, assistant director, Piedmont Planning District Commission, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Fitzgerald, employment counselor A, Virginia Employment Commission, J. Howard Greene, counselor, Virginia Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, Dr. A. D. Hengst, medical director, Piedmont State Hospital, Mrs. Anne Jones, social worker, Prince Edward County Department of Social Services, Mrs. Margaret Jones, Geriatric Recreation Program for Campbell County, Mrs. J. B. Pervall, home school coordinator, Prince Edward County Public Schools, Dr. Charles W. Scott, clinician, Regional Chest Clinic for Prince Edward County, Mrs. Rae Scott, Farmville Womans Club and I. M. Fitzgerald, special guest.

Designed to search out all handicapped persons who are not being helped and are not usefully occupied, the project will then provide individual and group craft instruction, homebound occupational training, and therapeutic recreational activities. The committee decided to invite residents from Prince Edward County and border line area cases to participate in the program. Mrs. Emma G. Anthony, regional program director and J. Howard Greene, counselor of Region 3 of the Virginia Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, stated they hoped to expand the service to other areas in the future.

Once a handicapped individual is found and trained his products will be promoted and sold. The proceeds of the sales will go to the handicapped person who created the items.

Volunteers to teach these individuals arts and crafts are urgently needed. These instructors may teach individually in the home or in a classroom setting. Information concerning handicapped people in the area may be called in to the office at 392-4136, and volunteers desiring to help the project by teaching or working with the handicapped may write or call Mrs. Emma G. Anthony, VLA regional program director.

According to Mrs. Anthony, "We are thrilled with the opportunity to assist people regain their sense of accomplishment. The long hours required by the handicapped can now be filled with a productive activity.

"However," she said, "We need the full support of residents in our area to get the project off the ground. Please keep your VLA, Central Region (formerly the TB Association) informed of handicapped people needing such service and volunteers willing to give their time to this unique program."
